Carmel dressing up town for a British holiday

BY DAVID LELAND

THE BRITISH are coming. The British are coming.

That would be A British Holiday, a joint effort between the Carmel Business Association and British Consulate, scheduled to take place between Dec. 6-15.

"Carmel has always been low-key at Christmastime," said Kathie Ritter, of the CBA's marketing committee. "We wanted to do something that would make the town as charming as it can be for locals and visitors."

Ritter added that the CBA is working "hand in glove" with the British consulate. In fact Anthony Ford, who represents the Queen Mother will ride in a festive parade, scheduled for Dec. 14.

The CBA describes Carmel as "the perfect setting to feature the foods, music and cultural diversity of the British Isles."

Ritter added, "Our lovely mild climate coupled with the quaint village feeling is reminiscent of English countryside holidays." Indeed, the effort is uniting all factions of the community, who are taking part in the Christmas spirit. The City, Carmel Residents Association, Church of the Wayfarer, GroveMont Theater, CBA and Carmel Unified School district are all chipping in.

"Everybody in town is getting involved," Ritter said.

Ritter said that those patronizing Carmel business and inns will receive coupons that give them a chance to win a round-trip to London for two on British Air, with a BritRail pass.

The drawing will take place as part of a Beatles Look-Alike, Sound-Alike concert, scheduled for 1-3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 15, at the Carmel High School Auditorium.

CUSD takes on LSD usage among students

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL UNIFIED School District officials pledged this week to step up drug education for students, parents and teachers, while at the same time acknowledging that the use of LSD has indeed made a resurgence at Carmel High School.

Selling for as little as $3 a "hit," the odorless and tasteless hallucinogen resulted in the Nov. 21 arrest of a 15-year-old male CHS student, who was picked up at school by Carmel police for possession of about 25 "tabs" of the chemical.

"LSD has surfaced for us in the last couple of weeks," said CHS Principal Marie Ishida, adding that student gossip indicates that some pupils are getting "high" at school and going out of their way

AS PART of the British Holidays celebration, GroveMont Theater is offering daily shuttle service from the Carmel Plaza to the Carmel

Mission and The Crossroads on its double-decker London bus. The bus will run on weekdays every 30 minutes between 2 to 6 p.m. and weekends from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. for only $1.

to converse with staff to see if they get caught. "We hear rumors, but it's difficult to prove."

Currently on suspension, the boy faces expulsion during a Dec. 5 hearing before the CUSD Board of Trustees, Ishida said.

Last week's student detention was tied directly to the arrest of a 30-year-old Monterey man on a weapons parole violation, according to Russ Dubree, deputy district attorney. Dubree said the man was also believed to be distributing LSD for sale to school children.

Dubree added that the CHS student, who was released to the custody of his parents, may not be officially charged with a criminal complaint.

"It seems to be more important to educate the families and kids," he said, adding that his department is not expecting anymore arrests of CHS students in the case.

Working together in gathering information leading to the arrest were Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey police departments, district attorney's office and Monterey County Sheriff's Department.

"The response...has been gratifying," said the parent who spearheaded the inquiry by hiring a private investigator to look into the problem after his child admitted to using LSD. "However, this (drug use) is a problem throughout the entire community; to focus in on Carmel High School would be inappropriate."

The parent, who requested anonymity, added that he will continue working with law enforcement agencies to flush out student drug dealers operating at CHS.

Such an undertaking, however, could prove to be a Herculean task.

"It happens to be a trading post," said CUSD Supt. Vance Baldwin, referring to schools presenting the ideal target for money-hungry dealers.

"The latest reports we have received show LSD on the upswing," said Sheriff Norm Hicks.

Ishida said that she will ask the sheriff's department to beef up patrol efforts to making sure dealers do no loiter near

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Restore government

Dear Editor:

The political rhetoric is heating up. It is the season prior to next year's elections when both Democrats and Republicans blame each other for the ills our country faces. In reality, both have had their share in perpetuating the problems before us and will no doubt continue if left in power. Most of those problems are moral, spiritual, ethical and are derived out of policy objectives originating in socialism, humanism, materialism and one-worldism.

Here in America, those policies encourage the welfare state, massive bureaucracy, excessive regulations, budget deficits, rising debt, paper credit, and more taxation, hidden and otherwise. In foreign policy they encourage give-aways (which we don't have) illegal immigration, and wars.

It was for a new agenda for America. A new political party which "advances principles and policy objectives consistent with the Bible and the Constitution of the United States." We must reframe the debate by campaigning for policies that "ought to be" rather than those that merely seem "pragmatic."

That is why I am involved in getting the U.S. Taxpayers Party ballot qualified in California, as is being done in most other states, for the 1992 elections and beyond. Our goals are long term, but there is a starting point. In order to qualify for 1992, we must have 80,000 Californians register or re-register "U.S. Taxpayers Party" on a registration affidavit by December 31st. Write or print it in on the blank line. Pick up the affidavit at the County Clerk's office or a post office in the county in which you reside. This is a grassroots effort, no special interest groups involved. Tell your friends. Use the photocopier.

Let's restore our government to its "only" legitimate purpose of safeguarding our God-given rights to life, liberty and property.

Don't hand over the links

Dear Editor:

Should the world-famous golf course known as Pebble Beach Golf Links be owned by private interests, particularly foreign interests? The answer is definitely "NO!"

How can the present situation be undone? In only one way — the exercise by the State of California of its right of eminent domain.

Under existing law, the State has the authority to acquire property for purposes of preserving public access to it and for purposes of creating parks and recreational areas.

A Bill should be introduced before the legislature that would require the Department of Parks and Recreation to acquire, by negotiations or eminent domain proceedings, the property within the County of Monterey commonly known as "Pebble Beach Golf Links" (only the 18 holes). The Bill would provide for the funding of the costs of this acquisition from public and private contributions, the proceeds of revenue bonds, and, to the extent these sources are insufficient, through a loan of moneys appropriated from the General Fund. If the parties can't agree on a fair market value, a Monterey County jury will fix it based on evidence of value.

Pebble Beach Golf Links is the Taj Mahal of golf courses, and such a jewel should be owned, not by private interests, but by the public.

Library needs our help

Dear Editor:

County budget cuts are seriously affecting Harrison Memorial Library. Book purchases have been reduced from 400 per month to 200. Newspaper and magazine selections have been reduced by 30 percent since July. There are no funds to expand the increasingly popular and important children's program. The "books-on-tape" and "large print" format collections, essential for visually impaired patrons, cannot be expanded. It is clear that the need for a new fund source is urgent!

Fortunately some far-sighted and very dedicated people formed the Carmel Public Library Foundation in anticipation of this need.

Now it is our turn to help. The Foundation cannot succeed without us. We can join the new Carmel Library Society by making an annual tax-deductible donation. If you'd like to participate you can receive a brochure and more information by calling the Foundation at 624-2811, or just send your check to the Carmel Public Library Foundation, Box 2042, Carmel 93921.

I'm putting the Library on the top of my Christmas list this year. A free public library is too important to lose. I hope you will join me.

Parking too restrictive

(Editor's Note: This letter was originally sent to the City of Carmel)

Dear Editor:

Enclosed you will find my personal check in amount of $20 in payment for two citations pertinent to City Code Violations 10.32.060 (overtime parking) on Oct. 18. The first ticket was placed on our rental car at 1 p.m., noting that it was 30 minutes over, and the second was placed at 2:16 p.m.

As an annual fall visitor to your wonderful city for the past five to six years, we have stayed within walking distance of your elegantly tempting shops (a wonderful pre-Christmas opportunity). This year, because of medical necessity, I chose to park the rental car so I wouldn't have as far to walk with heavy packages. Unfortunately, I did not notice the two-hour parking restriction

Library needs private support

THERE IS the real possibility that in the very near future we may find our Carmel library (Harrison Memorial and Park Branch) totally without funds to buy books, limited acquisition of periodicals and a reduction in special programs. I find it difficult to imagine a library being very useful if it were unable to continue to build its collection.

Why is this happening? Library services are one of the victims of the increasing crisis faced by public budgets; the rising cost of so many services, particularly health care, support for those requiring the "safety net" services and senior citizens has begun to squeeze back on the capability to maintain support for services not judged as essential.

In Carmel-by-the-Sea the library has been supported in large by the City; these funds maintain the buildings and pay for the staff. Funds coming from county sources have provided the book acquisition budget. These funds are being materially reduced to the point where virtually no new books can be ordered at Harrison.

Clearly there is the possibility that other public sources of funds could develop. However, I would like to make a case for developing private support for book acquisition and special programs so that we have the assurance of perpetual support.

The entire concept of so-called "free" libraries was initiated in 1731 by Benjamin Franklin. With a group of similarly minded friends he commenced a "subscription library" in Philadelphia. Books for the library were purchased via individual subscriptions from the members. Books could be borrowed - free by the member; others could come to the "library" to read.

Thus, the genesis of what has become a free library supported by public funds. Apparently we are back to where we started - a need to provide private support for book acquisition.

While there can be legitimate debate over public budgets and the choices made, I would hope there is little or no disagreement on the desirability of sustaining a well-supplied free library. I cannot imagine a democracy which would work without an informed populace. Television and radio do convey immediate news, but printed matter is the basis, largely, of education.

For a country increasingly concerned with the education of people for work we must supply the means for continuing education to maintain our individual and collective productivity. And, certainly an informed populace will exercise its collegial role in voting more effectively if educated.

If the library were forced to charge for services, isn't there the distinct possibility that those most in need of library services may be the least able to pay? Children, the immigrating population, seniors on limited fixed income - and would therefore drop-out, not using these services. Since all of us benefit from a better-educated fellow citizen, shouldn't we be prepared to make certain it is accessible.

So I believe the effort to create a perpetual endowment for book acquisition is a sensible approach. The income from endowment will insure that books are acquired - and available to all. Most of all, it will be a program not subject to political choices each time there is a budget crisis.

Our museums and galleries in this country are the result of private support and generations continue to benefit from the wise donation of the fortunate ones who created and gave collections to various institutions.

The Harrison Library can benefit from the same charitable commitment. Support now for the creation of a $3,000,000 endowment will enrich the library and ourselves by sustaining a first-rate institution in our community.

signs until returning to the car and finding the tickets.

Merrily, I shopped away from 11:30 a.m. until 3 p.m., three and a half hours worth, and many, many hundreds of dollars worth for your extremely pleasant shop keepers; only to be brought up short by the irritating fact of the tickets.

I live near a city that has not only lost most of its shops due to loss of customers because of too many burdens for shoppers convenience, but our city has been searching for years in vain to find ways to rekindle that interest when suburban malls have now attracted that patronage. Inner city is deteriorated, vagrancy and crime are commonplace.

I wouldn't foresee that scenario for Carmel-by-the-Sea, but certainly elements of that enforcement philosophy would suggest that more attention needs to be focused on a solution for what I understand is a regular complaint of visitors and residents alike.

Now I certainly did overstay my parking space, albeit unwittingly, and accept the responsibility to pay the fine accordingly. I write however, because I see tremendous conflict.

On the one hand, people parking "all day" prevent others from parking and having access. On the other hand, if I were a shopkeeper, paying top rate for such a desirable location, I would be frustrated that potential customers (i.e. economic development potential for Carmel-by-the-Sea) are discouraged from shopping and/or are penalized by parking tickets that fill the city's coffers in a more negative way.

We will be back, but perhaps hotels could notify their guests to be aware of the parking restrictions, and a parking area could be developed to encourage, even entice, rather than discourage, those very tourists you depend upon for your survival.

Former 49er to plead innocent to sex charges

By SUSAN BECK

GREG COX, a former special teams player for the San Francisco 49ers, will plead innocent to sex charges filed against him, according to his attorney.

Cox has been charged with two counts of rape, oral copulation, and false imprisonment, according to the Monterey District Attorney's Office, which filed the complaint Nov. 20.

Cox will be arraigned this week in Monterey County Municipal Court, said Frank Ubhaus, an attorney with San Jose-based Berliner, Cohen and Blagini.

If convicted on all counts, Cox could face up to 24 years in a state prison.

Assistant District Attorney Charlie Keeley is representing the Monterey woman who claims the incident took place in September at the Carmel Valley home of Mark Jensen, a friend of Cox.

"Cox is way over charged," said Ubhaus. "When all the facts are in, there is not going to be a question of reasonable doubt that Greg didn't do anything. He is extremely upset, and it's safe to say that in one day his whole life came apart, literally."

The day before the charges were filed, Cox was released from the 49ers whose representatives said the decision was strictly, "a football decision, period."

Ubhaus, who has represented the 49ers on other matters, said that Cox, 26, is at home in San Jose, "looking for work." He was married in August and his wife, Kristine, is expecting their first child.

Cox played football for Hartnell College and was a linebacker for San Jose State University. He was considered the second-best tackler on the special teams unit. In 1988 the 49ers went to the Super Bowl, and Cox had signed on as a free agent. He then played for the New York Giants in '89, but returned to the 49ers in '90 as a Plan B free agent.

According to the Monterey County Sheriff's report, Cox and the young woman met at Sharky's Club on Franklin Street in Monterey, where she works. He and friends were watching Monday Night Football, and during the evening she was invited by the club's owner to join them after work, but declined. However, she met up with them again later that night at Viva's on Alvarado Street. Another invitation ensued and this time she decided to go along. They went to the Doubletree to have a drink and dance, finally ending up back at Sharky's.

"There was a lot of time spent having a good time and there was a lot of drinking," said Ubhaus.

At some point in the early hours, the woman said that Cox offered her a ride home, which she accepted. But, she said he drove to the Carmel Valley residence instead. She acknowledged they both were intoxicated, but maintains that she argued to be taken back to her home.

According to the complaint, the woman said that Cox refused, forced her into the house and raped her.

Keeley is reported to have said that Jensen was in the house at the time of the alleged attack. Ubhaus said, "there are witnesses that should come forward and state that there were no protests made by the woman."

He said that he does not anticipate a preliminary hearing at the arraignment.

"I think the when the facts are in, Cox will be vindicated," said Ubhaus.

After several false starts, water board OKs small well metering

By FRANK GEORGE

AFTER SEVERAL misfires, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board this week gave small well owners their best shot and approved a small well metering ordinance.

Only a few changes, such as moving the inception date forward by six months to February, were made to the battered ordinance, which has been the subject of hot debate since its introduction last spring.

The board's measure now refers to a map that specifically defines the district's borders, which was added to placate critics who charged that the district may eventually attempt to enforce metering on wells outside district boundaries.

In brief, the ordinance states that property owners within the district shall meter wells producing more than 5 five acre feet of water per year. Wells situated on less than two and a half acres are exempt from the measure, but pumps on land sold after Feb. 24 will need meters.

This means every well in the district will eventually be gauged. Those who choose not to comply with the ordinance will be subject to $500 penalties for "each day of well operation in violation," the draft states.

The ordinance also asks well owners to submit water production figures each Aug. 15. Between 25-35 percent of the remaining unmetered wells in the district will be affected by the measure, district staffers estimate.

Other items of note at the meeting include:

- Larry Foy, Cal-Am vice president revealed that water from the problematic Peralta Avenue well in Seaside could be available to consumers by April 15.

Nonetheless, "anything can slip," Foy cautioned, adding that a design permit for structures around the well may become delayed by the Seaside planning department.

The 1,000 acre foot pump was originally scheduled for completion last April, but numerous glitches (including a hydrogen sulfide problem) have delayed its opening.

The new well is scheduled to free up to 308 acre feet of water for new construction.

- The board of directors elected to consider changes to the water permit moratorium ordinance at their Dec. 16 meeting.

Specifically, projects meeting public health, safety or welfare exemption may no longer be required to prove non-profit status.

But cities approving such projects could be debited for the additional water they use, meaning their annual allocation would be reduced. However, Jim Cofer, district general manager, said he doesn't think this will change a civic project's chances for city approval.

- The two-to-one water savings requirement on new structures could be eased to a one-and-a-half-to-one standard.

Under current guidelines, a house using 300 gallons per day must be retrofitted to save 200 daily in order to obtain 100 gallons per day for new construction.

Moreover, homeowners wishing to petition for additional water may get credit for retrofitting existing appliances if the proposed changes are approved. This means getting a permit for a new bathroom may be easier for those who retrofit an existing bathroom and prove the one-and-a-half-to-one savings.

Those who do so will not be alone, according to a staff report given on water conservation. Michael Ricker, district water demand manager, estimated that 6,000 projects (or 12,000 toilets) have been retrofitted since the drought began in 1987.

"The (permit) office has been quite busy with people who are being creative (despite the moratorium)," Ricker commented.

- Directors set aside an additional $5,000 for finishing the Carmel River channel clearing project. Since its inception in October 1990, $13,000 in district funds have been relegated for this flood-prevention program.

The monies will be spent on fuel, labor, chainsaw chains and the like, according to Andrew Bell, district engineer. Bell said 100 river front property owners have cooperated with the project, and the remaining work list includes salvaging sycamores and cottonwoods, among other things.

Parks District set to debate Hatton Canyon freeway issue

AT THEIR regular meeting Monday, Dec. 2 the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District Board of Directors will discuss the Hatton Canyon freeway issue and associated impacts on public recreational resources and sensitive natural features. Representatives from the California Department of Transportation and the Hatton Canyon Coalition will make short presentations regarding levels of traffic service, proposed freeway alternatives, and associated impacts on natural resources. There will be an opportunity for the public to comment during the meeting.

The park board has officially indicated its interest in acquiring the 168-acre Hatton Canyon right-of-way for public use as a regional park if the proposed canyon freeway alignment is abandoned and the property is declared surplus. In a letter to Edwin Wood, Regional Administrator of the Federal Highway Administration, Park Board President Zad Leavy wrote that "Hatton Canyon and its four tributary drainages offer outstanding public recreation values and include some of the most significant, unbroken wildlife habitat in the greater Carmel Area". Although the Park Board has not taken a formal stand on the Hatton Canyon Freeway, Directors may consider accepting Staff Recommendations to adopt a resolution advocating the preservation of Hatton Canyon for its unique natural resources and public recreation values.

Other items on the agenda include a public hearing on the Park District Final Environmental Impact Report and Master Plan, a review of tentative new ward boundaries, and a review of a draft memorandum of understanding with Asilomar Operating Corporation for Rocky Shores. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 in the Seaside City Hall Council Chambers.

Pebble Beach Co. parts ways with Jamie Warren

IN AN apparent effort to down-size its operations, the Pebble Beach Co. has terminated Jamie Warren, the popular vice president and manager of The Lodge at Pebble Beach.

John Chadwell, vice president and general manager of The Inn and Links at Spanish Bay will now oversee both resorts, according to Mark Verbonich, vice president of community affairs.

"As long as you are working for someone else, this is hanging over your head," said Warren, 40, who has been with the company in his current position and in marketing for the past five years. "I've known for more than a month."

Warren, who boasts close relationships with luminaries such as rock star Alice Cooper, actor Randy Quaid and baseball hurler Tom Browning, said the departure is effective Dec. 1.

Warren will stay in the area and open Creative Events in Carmel Valley, which will stage golf tournaments both locally and around the country.

"I'm pretty well prepared for what I'll be doing," he said. "I've got a lot of things going, but they are all in the planning stages."

Chadwell, who joined Pebble Beach in 1989, formerly served as general manager for the resort division of EuroDisneyland in Orlando, Florida, where he oversaw development of new Disney resorts in Paris.

Other career highlights include eight years with Meridien Hotels, Inc. and two years with Hotel Maksoud Plaza in Brazil.

UNDER A plan to reorganize, Pebble Beach Co. terminated Jamie Warren, manager of The Lodge at Pebble Beach, and consolidated that posi-

But CUSD Boardmember Hilton Bialek said that the problem cannot be solved entirely by police action.

"We're very aware of these things and do the best we can," he said, adding students cannot be placed behind bars to protect them. "We're not a penal institution."

Last week's incident marked the first student arrest in two years, Ishida said.

Economy to blame

At CHS, students are well-aware of the recession's effect on their parents, as discretionary dollars shrink. For example, LSD is far cheaper than cocaine, which can cost a user $30 and upwards for a high.

But non-users are also quick to point out that LSD is not taking over the campus.

"It's a select group; it's not a widespread thing," said Junior Lance Thompson. "I don't see it as being a problem."

Junior Paul Murphy estimated that the 25-30 current LSD users could be driven underground by the recent bust.

"I think it might cause people to be more hush-hush about drugs at school," he said. "It might put things on hold for a while; (but) I definitely don't think it will stop anything."

Hicks added that, in part, the drug's popularity has resurfaced because it is not as potent as it was during its heyday in the Flower Power days of the late '60s.

Meanwhile, the CUSD has distributed a letter to parents describing the symptoms associated with LSD use and what they should do if they discover one of the quarter-inch paper squares of paper commonly used for the drug.

"If you see paper which you might suspect may contain LSD, do not touch it with moist fingers, since the drug can be absorbed through the skin," said CUSD Supt. Vance Baldwin. "Place it in a plastic bag and submit it to the local law enforcement agency for analysis."

While difficult to predict, Baldwin said symptoms from LSD use may include:

- Increased pulse rate, body temperature, breathing rate and blood pressure.
- Dilated pupils.
- Muscular weakness and trembling.
- Nausea and vomiting.
- Distorted auditory and visual perception.
- Intensified and conflicting emotional reaction.
- Diminished ability to differentiate the boundaries of one object from another.

• Panic reaction.

Baldwin pointed out that schools represent a symptom, rather than a cause for drug use in the community.

"The problem of drug use among youth is a complex one which is influenced by all aspects of a student's environment: family, community, school and peers," he said. "Not one of these systems alone can turn the problem around. The only effective way to reduce drug use is a concerted, cooperative effort by everyone involved. Parents interested in joining a committee to deal with the problem can call Janell Malek at 624-1546."

CUSD Chairperson Patricia Condren said that drug problems are not just attacking students on the outskirts of academic life.

"Parents should not assume that, just because kids are A students, that they can't become involved with drugs," she said. "Every parent should be alert."

Hicks agreed with the community-wide concept.

"Everyone has to be involved or this problem will never be solved," he said.

CARMEL MISSION CLEANERS

DOLORES ST. NEAR OCEAN AVE. • CARMEL Hours: Monday-Friday 7:30 a.m. - 6:00 p.m. • Saturday 8:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

LUCKILY, LONGTIME Carmel resident Richard Lamb, 81, escaped injury last week when a fire destroyed a portion of

Near-disastrous Carmel fire contained

CARMEL SAFETY officials are crediting fast response time, heroic police efforts and the presence of a working smoke detector for the successful rescue of Richard Lamb, 81, whose Santa Fe Street home caught fire in the early-morning hours of Nov. 21.

Preliminary investigation by Art Black, fire prevention specialist, indicates that Lamb, a longtime Carmel resident, may have fallen asleep while smoking in bed.

Lamb, who is disabled and uses a wheel chair, went to sleep at about 3 a.m. and was awakened at 4:30 a.m. by the sound of his smoke alarm beeping; he then called 911 and managed to maneuver himself to the living room.

Two minutes later Officer Hector Gonzales arrived at the scene and was able to pull Lamb from the flames. Lamb, who was examined by paramedics, received no injuries.

The fire department arrived within four minutes of receiving notification and put out the blaze in the pre-1930, single-walled redwood home, within minutes, according to Black.

Currently staying with friends in Prunedale, Lamb lost about $10,000 worth of personal belongings and the structure will cost about $30,000 to repair, according to Black.

Black said that Lamb may be alive today because he maintained the batteries in his smoke detector. Statistics indicate almost half the smoke detectors in American homes are not operating, Black said.

Black added that batteries should be changed at least every six months.

A youth center windfall

THE CARMEL Youth Center Board of Directors has received funding from the Harden Foundation in the amount of $19,300. The Harden Foundation donates funds to the youth and aging on a limited basis. The Foundation very seldom donates outside the Salinas Valley, and the board is pleased to receive this award.

Five thousand dollars was received from the Hermann Graver Foundation of Pebble Beach; Dunsbaugh-Dalton Foundation, Inc. of Pebble Beach donated $5000. J. Irvine Trustee of Laullie Irvine Foundation of Carmel Valley donated $1000.

The donations will be used for remodeling the multi-purpose room.

Test of character

At 7 o'clock in the morning on Saturday, Nov. 16, nine sleepy seniors climbed into the school van. Their destination — Hartnell College in Salinas for the 1991 Academic Decathlon.

These brave souls were about to subject themselves to half-hour tests in economics, language and literature, science, social studies, mathematics, and fine arts, as well as a half-hour essay, two speeches (one prepared and one impromptu) and an interview. At the end of these events was the super quiz in a Jeopardy-type set up.

Seven schools in the county participated in this year's Decathlon: Alisal, Carmel, Monterey, North Monterey County, North Salinas, King City, and Salinas. Each school grouped their participants into three groups of three people classified as varsity, scholastic, and honors, according to their grade point average. For Carmel, Shelley Gesicki, Chris Wagy, and John Weston were varsity team members. Joelle Colliard, Matt Sagen, and I were scholastic and Matt Connelly, Chris DiMaggio, and Vanessa Gulla filled out the honors team.

Once the nine of us, and our two advisors, Mr. and Mrs. Walch, got to Hartnell, we were shoed into the cafeteria to begin the essay — at eight o'clock in the morning! Two or three pages and 30 minutes later, everyone grudgingly handed over the fruits of their frantic labors. One event down, nine more to go!

The mathematics test was next, and we were fortunate enough to be allowed the use of our calculators. After math came science, which was a combination of biology and chemistry. The speech and interview, which followed the science test, was the most dreaded portion of the decathlon. When each school had its turn for the speech/interview, students were assigned to individual classrooms for private interviews and speeches. Luckily, the student speakers only had to speak to an audience of three judges.

After the speeches (and the thumping hearts and sweaty palms that accompanied them), the rest of the day seemed a little brighter and easier. The language and literature test, in keeping with an environmental theme, was pretty much a reading test on Thoreau's Walden and Farley Mowatt's Diane Fossey biography, A Woman in the Mists.

Economics proved to be interesting — only two people on the team are in the class at school this semester! The social studies exam tested our knowledge of geography. The fine arts portion asked questions about artists such as David Hockney, Albert Bierstadt, and Ansel Adams and composers to the likes of Claude Debussy, Bedrich Smetana and Neil Diamond.

Last, but not least, was the super quiz. All the schools moved from the cafeteria to the gym. Each of the three teams from each school sat at the floor of the gym with an answer sheet and a judge. Questions were flashed on an overhead projector and everyone had 20 seconds to answer.

Of course, these tests weren't taken for nothing. Each was worth a maximum of 1,000 points and the team with the most points won. Medals for first, second, and third places were awarded that evening at Hartnell, as well as team trophies in each category.

Nearly everyone on the Carmel team came home with at least one medal. Carmel also managed to set a record — Chris DiMaggio was the first to score 1,000 points in the essay, a perfect score. Matt Connelly was right behind him with a 950! Chris went on to become the overall high point winner in his honors group.

Thanks to the combined efforts of the Carmel team, we brought home two team trophies in essay and interview and 19 individual medals. Although we came in second to North Salinas (again) in the Academic Decathlon, we're getting closer to the top spot.

Next year we'll get them!

Conceptual plans for Murphy Park now available for public perusal

By SUSAN BECK

CONCEPTUAL PLANS depicting how the 12,000 square-foot, city-owned First Murphy Park will appear at the time of completion are now posted on the corner of Lincoln and Sixth Streets, said Greg D'Ambrosio, director of administration services.

He said that he hopes this will help answer a lot of questions for the community about the park, and give everyone a chance to visualize the project, which, once completed, will provide patios, an observation deck with panoramic views of the ocean, modern restroom facilities and several benches.

"I think that the community will be pleased with the results, which will be a marvelous addition to the community and one we can all be proud of," said D'Ambrosio.

The project required that six trees be removed, three of which were seriously declining due to bark beetle insect infestations.

However, for every tree taken down, eight native trees of pine and oak, will replace it, bringing the total to 48, D'Ambrosio said.

There will be a few temporary inconveniences such as the closure of the eight-space parking lot at the corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue, which is reserved for patrons of the Harrison Memorial Library, and the loss of the portable restrooms at the park site.

Upon completion of Murphy Park, the parking spaces will be restored, plus there will be another space to accommodate parking for the disabled. Security lighting to the area will be provided by the installation of decorative street lamps of a heritage design.

Until the park is ready, there will be a sign posted directing people to the restrooms at Devendorf Park at Ocean and Sixth avenues and Junipero Street. Also, the information will be available at the library.

D'Ambrosio said that Carmel began working on the park project in 1990, after which many public meetings were held. Both residents and members of the business community contributed significantly to the final design approved by the city council.

The winged messenger

WHAT IS a Mercury Retrograde? To those of you who have made countless telephone calls to me asking... "What is a Mercury Retrograde?" I feel a special responsibility... especially since one will begin on Nov. 28, in Sagittarius... and go Direct on Dec. 18 (1991)... and those having birthdays between Nov. 30 through Dec. 17th will be most affected.

The planet Mercury rules the mind. It's the winged messenger you see at FTD florists and it's the energy that follows thought... where we reason and use logic, our intellect and the ability to communicate. It's where The Master form, great works, opinions collected and action taken once a decision is made.

Anytime a planet is retrograde, it's like a turning back of the astrological clock of that planet. The Sun-Moon are never retrograde. Retrograde Mercury can be a very significant analytical tool because we can isolate communication problems to solve after it goes Direct.

When Mercury is retrograde, it slows down all communications and this one will be dealing with belief systems, higher education, and consciousness and attitudes. Expect people to be more direct in speech and say exactly what they think. Travel agents and lawyers need to be careful in their scheduling between Nov. 28th and Dec. 18th (1991)... and need to re-check details... Stores may experience shipments being late or you may receive an over-abundance of items not ordered. It happens. Auto dealers and gas stations may have difficulty getting small parts... and electronic firms can expect production slowdowns.

You get a chance to "think over" whether or not you really NEED all those things. This won't be a great time to start anything new, to negotiate contracts or bank loans. In real estate, buyers and sellers will alter agreements and/or closing dates. On the POSITIVE side, it's a great time for answering friendly correspondence, take refresher courses as the recall is easy and grades for students are usually higher than the first time. It's the time to do things over and over and over again. I've found through the years the BEST way to handle this chaos is to wing it... follow your hunches, your intuition, and do the impractical. It works! Or... you could sit at Carmel Beach, break open a picnic lunch and take time to smell the flowers. Good luck!

R.C.G. (male) - Riverside, Conn., Born Nov. 21, 1927... I'm a doctor and I have an invention that would revolutionize the field of learning disabilities. I need funding for my project. Do I approach East or West Coast investors? What do you advise?

CH: You're a Scorpio and yours is the most powerful sign of the Zodiac because it's ruled by the planet PLUTO (the bulldozer). Your work to improve all life on Earth. No sign is more potent. You never deal with life on a superficial level, however, you are often unable to delegate responsibility so you overwork. When spiritually developed, Scorpio can accomplish miracles in fields of research, like Michel Gauquelin (born Nov. 13, 1928), a respected researcher who compiled six massive volumes of data. Books include Cosmic Clocks.

With your determined mind and great resourcefulness you will surmount the financial obstacles that many would find impossible to deal with. Pluto over the next 5-years is very well aspected in your chart and will lead you to the greatest heights of spiritual achievement, along with wisdom.

As for funding... the Scorpio states are MONTANA, NEVADA, NORTH CAROLINA, NORTH DAKOTA, OKLAHOMA, SOUTH DAKOTA AND WASHINGTON (State Of). Quite possibly Florida (Pisces state) but well aspected to your Jupiter in Pisces.

I do advise a business partner in the project, since your Venus is in Libra and someone born Oct. 5th would be suitable and could be from either Santa Barbara or Palm Springs (California). The East Coast won't work for you as places like New York have heavy Leo placements and are not well aspected to your Scorpio planets. There is also a possibility that there is someone in Washington D.C. that would show interest time to meet with and get the funding by April, 1992 when all systems are GO! What happened along these lines between Oct. 30th and Nov. 21st?

S.T. (female) - Carmel, Born June 27th 1947... When am I going back to Australia?

CH: Australia is a Capricorn country and you're a Cancer... your career would flourish if you were to live there. I could see you operating a Bed and Breakfast there. You could go back between Feb. 13 and 17 (1992) or July 21 and 26 (1992).

A.W. (male) A.W. - Eugene, Oregon... How come every time I take a step forward, I go back two or three steps?

When is that going to stop? Born Nov. 3, 1953.

CH: SATURN will help you work even harder in 1992 and it will seem like you're getting nowhere, but actually you're laying a foundation to see you through the next 30-years.

You are motivated by stress and it's possible you will move out of Eugene by February 1992...you need more mental stimulation with 5 planets in Air signs you seem to be visiting the planet. You are a Scorpio and I get the feeling that you are hiding in Eugene...a nice comfortable rut and the only difference between a rut and the grave is how deep it is.

You're about to end a 7-year cycle of stress and you've learned what you needed in Oregon. As 1992-93 unfolds you will need a larger group to relate to. Saturn will push you into an acceptance of personal responsibility and help you sort out your professional life. It is time to get on with your own separate life from your parents/family, to set up a career, a family of your own, a place of your own.

B.W. (female) Cottage Grove, Oregon...At what level are my artistic, creative talents? And now that I'm single again, what are love possibilities in the near future? Born March 27, 1933.

CH: Patience my dear. With the Sun, Moon and Uranus in Aries patience is tough medicine for you to swallow. You have Mercury/Venus in Pisces so you've been raked over the coals in love and your mother expected you to be JOAN OF ARC 24 hours a days...your sensitive side was never encouraged nor appreciated. Your artistic/creative talents are spiritual gifts, like stained glass in churches, and religious paintings.

You're going to have your second Saturn Return in 1992 when you're going to make a 180-degree turn in your solar 11th house. There's an extreme need for love and has been throughout your life. By 1994-95 you will meet a beautiful man, and marry if you choose. This man will be the spiritual link you are looking for, possibly from Florida and will be worth waiting for. Be patient!

D.R. (female) Aptos...I have been married and divorced have had (3) relationships in the last 10-years since my divorce. When will there be a man in my life who will treat me with love, consideration and respect?

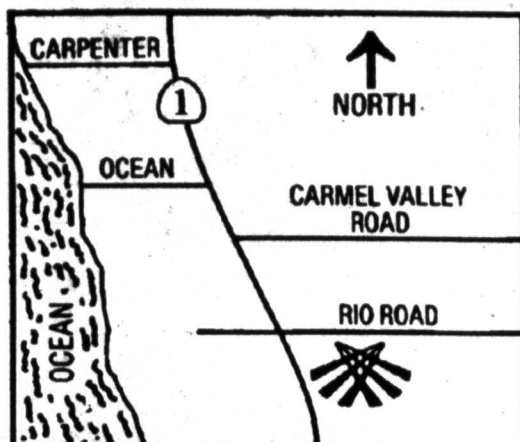

CH: Being stress motivated doesn't exactly make you a candidate for a house by the side of the road. You need lots of mental stimulation in romance.

With your Venus in Gemini your chart shows two marriages...in fact an Air sign (Gemini) born June 13th would be a perfect match. The next two years you couldn't fall on your face no matter how hard you try...your aspects are beautiful.

You must keep in mind that your mother attracted controlling men and you need to dump her garbage. It's not your baggage, it's hers.

February 1993 could find you married to a foreign man, perhaps an Aquarian born on Feb. 11th. He may be an artist/photographer and FUN...something you haven't experienced in a long time.

See you all next week...

Carmel Valley Outlook

The impossible dream

By SUSAN BECK

PACIFIC MEADOWS ceremoniously opened with a ribbon cutting on Monday, Nov. 25.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman and Ray Parks, architect for the project, spoke about the hurdles that seemed at times to be impossible to overcome.

Since 1987 a month has not passed where some problem, delay or controversy didn't need to be addressed, said Parks. He was told over and over again that the project defied the tradition of Carmel Valley, but he never lost hope that it would culminate to be a worthy housing development for the Monterey Peninsula.

Strasser Kauffman welcomed the new residents and said that third and fourth generations of families who have lived here, but would otherwise not be able to afford to retire on the peninsula could now do so.

She thanked the Monterey County Board of Supervisors for devoting extra time and energy to see that Pacific Meadows, a 200-unit retirement community at the mouth of the valley, became a reality.

She also said how grateful she was for the generous land gift of James Garner and Clint and Maggie Eastwood, which made the retirement housing project possible.

The land was intended many years ago for full development, and even after the land was designated for limited development the plans were for a subdivision, which she said, would have been unacceptable.

Strasser Kauffman said that Pacific Meadows is a low-intensity project using a small fraction of the property. The other several hundred acres to Jack's Peak Park will now be undisturbed wilderness.

Hiking at Garland Ranch

THE MONTEREY Outdoor Singles group will hike at Garland Ranch in Carmel Valley on Saturday, Nov. 30.

All hikers are to meet at the Valley Hills Shopping Center two miles east of Hwy 1 on Carmel Valley Road by 10 a.m. The hike will take about four hours. Everyone should bring a lunch, water and wear sturdy shoes.

For more information call Pat Rosburg at 624-5391.

Historical Society Meets

THE CARMEL Valley Historical Society meets every Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at Rosie's Cracker Barrel at the end of the village. Take a right off Carmel Valley Road on Esquiline Road and cross the bridge.

The current projects are raising funds to buy the Bank of America building for the society's museum, and working with local decedents of the Rumsen and Esalen tribes to gather historical information.

For more information call Stewart Clough, chairman, at 659-2629.

Happy Holidays

THANKSGIVING DAY on the Monterey Peninsula is like no other in the world. We all have so much to be thankful for each day upon awakening and opening our eyes to some of the most beautiful scenery on earth! We just returned from the Na Pali Coast on Kauai and after hiking eight miles through a rainforest straight up the 800 foot high cliffs, we reached a view that was absolutely awe inspiring...and, it looked a lot like Big Sur! We are the fortunate ones who do not have to travel to the ends of the earth for majestic views! We see them everyday and we're so lucky to have chosen this extraordinary location to call "home!" Happy Thanksgiving to you all!

The lionhearted take charge

By RAY A. MARCH

BEFORE A group of leading preservationists, one of the country's foremost mountain lion experts called for a comprehensive program to educate the general public on the animal's behavioral patterns.

Maurice Hornocker, guest speaker at the inaugural fund raising program for the Rancho San Carlos Foundation, said a "vigorous, obvious action program" was needed in order to understand how the mountain lion can co-habitate peacefully with humans.

"We must preserve this splendid animal, and not annihilate it," Hornocker told an audience that included Margaret Ownings, founder of the Mountain Lion Foundation; Dr. Mark Stromberg, resident manager of the Hastings Natural History Reservation; Denise Duffy, a Monterey-based environmental consultant; and numerous area residents known for their preservation efforts.

Hornocker is director of the Wildlife Research Institute in Moscow, Idaho and is a world wide leader in the study of the mountain lion. His current research projects include behavioral studies of mountain lions in the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness and ecological studies of lions in New Mexico and Yellowstone National Park. In January he will begin an ecology study of Siberian tigers in the Soviet Union. He is a frequent contributor to National Geographic.

The Rancho San Carlos Foundation was recently formed for the purpose of raising and allocating funds to support education, research and community programs which foster the sensitive integration of people with their natural environment in Monterey County.

Speaking precisely to that point, Hornocker said a "vigorous, obvious action program" based on scientific research was needed in order to fully understand the mountain lion.

"We need (more) information on how to live with them peacefully and how to save the mountain lion for the future," Hornocker told his audience of about 60. He said because of the lions' secretive nature they are difficult to study.

"Mountain lions are another dimension" he said. "The knowledge that it is there is one thing, but to see one is a tremendous thrill."

In his studies, Hornocker observes the mountain lion indirectly through the use of radio telemetry, a sophisticated scientific approach to following the lion's daily patterns.

After a three-day visit to Rancho San Carlos, Hornocker said that while it was apparent mountain lions are part of the region's habitat, it was impossible to say how many there were or what their range was without a comprehensive study.

As an indicator of the eco-system, Hornocker said the mountain lion is at the top of the scale. Living primarily on deer, the lions' population is directly related to the deer population and is reflective of the food chain. Numerous deer indicate ample vegetation.

Citing examples in Florida, New Mexico and Colorado, where millions of dollars of being invested in mountain lion studies, Hornocker repeatedly stressed the importance of research and education programs.

Saturday, Dec. 7, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Tularcitos School Multi-Purpose Room in Carmel Valley. According to Kate McAnaney who began the Carmel Valley Toy Fair, this is a flea market designed for kids to sell their good used toys, games, books, sports equipment, and video games. It's also a chance for parents to pick up some great bargains for holiday gifts. Toys which are not purchased are donated to charities for Christmas gifts for needy children. This is definitely a win-win event! Children wishing to register for a selling table should send name, address, phone, parent's name, and a check for $5 to TOY FAIR, P.O. Box 124, Carmel Valley, 93924 or register in person at the Community Center office from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For the first time ever, YOUR little boy or girl can ride with Santa in his sleigh through the Village on Dec. 14 at the 33rd Annual "Santa's Fly-In Parade." Raffle tickets are being sold at stores throughout Carmel Valley Village for one dollar. A lucky boy and girl will be chosen to co-star with Santa in the parade and then be the first to tell Santa their wishes at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center. Tickets will be sold through Dec. 12 and Santa's elves will be on the playground at Tularcitos Dec. 5 and 6 during recess to sell chances. Winners will be notified by telephone. Proceeds from the raffle will go towards defraying the expenses of the parade.

Santa will be flown into the Carmel Valley airport by Skip Marquard. The Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club is busy helping Santa's elves prepare his sleigh. This is also the first year all the businesses in the Village will be participating in the parade. The spirit of the community will be marching with pride at 11 a.m. on Dec. 14! Don't miss it! If you'd like to participate, please call me at 659-3983.

Turkey talk

HAPPY THANKSGIVING! The holidays are upon us and the festivities are about to begin. As I've previously mentioned, fresh ground turkey, available at most supermarkets, is a regular part of my pets' diet along with rice, pasta, vegetables and a quality kibble. If your pets are used to turkey in their diet, they can certainly share in your Thanksgiving meal. However, if you don't give them ground turkey as a regular diet, be very careful. Excessive amounts of turkey meat — or fat — can be difficult for your pet to digest and can cause intestinal upset. Also, be aware that some animals may develop allergic reactions to foods they aren't accustomed to eating.

Turkey bones are hollow, so they're very brittle and splinter easily. If swallowed, a sharp piece can puncture the intestines or cause a blockage — and symptoms may not appear for a day or two. So, NO BONES, PLEASE!

Salmonella poisoning is another danger to pets and to people. Salmonella bacteria live in the intestinal tract of turkeys and other animals. Cooking usually destroys the bacteria but if the meat is undercooked (and that can happen at the center of a turkey if it's large or full of stuffing) you can have problems. Salmonella bacteria can multiply and cause contamination if the meat sits at room temperature for too long. Any person or pet eating the contaminated meat is at risk of poisoning, so watch it!

Symptoms of salmonella poisoning include stomach upset, diarrhea, vomiting, fever, loss of appetite and listlessness. If your pet shows any of these signs and has eaten from the table, contact your veterinarian immediately.

One last reminder — and this one is very important: Many pets are attracted to the twine used to truss turkeys and to the small pop-up thermometers often found in turkeys bought at the supermarket. They smell and taste like the turkey meat, so your Best Friend might raid the garbage to get into these "leftovers." That twine can be absolutely deadly to your pet! It can wrap around his intestines and cause a serious intestinal blockage that could result in his death. And the plastic thermometer can cause similar damage. So, after you've cleared the holiday table put all of the garbage into a secure container and lock it away from your precious pet. I hope you all have a safe and happy holiday.

ANOTHER HAPPY ENDING

If you're a regular reader of my column, you'll remember "Spotty." She's an adorable Dalmatian mix pup who's been looking for a home for a long time. She spent many months being boarded at our veterinarian's office and everyone there fell in love with her and tried desperately to find Spotty a loving home.

One of doctor's employees, Charlotte Jordan, took a special interest in Spotty, but Charlotte had pets of her own and didn't feel she could handle another. At long last we found home for Spotty and although we were all pleased, Charlotte was devastated when she came to work and found Spotty's run was empty. She phoned me to ask where Spotty had gone and if she could visit the new home. When we spoke later, she told me it was a very nice home and the lady was really sweet, but she wasn't sure about the man. He hadn't taken to Spotty and he had reservations.

Well, to make a long story short, Spotty went potty in the house and back she came to us! Charlotte was ecstatic, immediately took Spotty home for a four-day visit, and that was it! Spotty Jordan has found her niche and her new family couldn't be happier.

Coast & Country

By Barbara March

Count your crystal

YOU'VE PAID your money to stroll around for at least three hours at a wine and food event balancing your precious etched souvenir glass and a plate of hors d'oeuvres. You don't dare set your glass down for a moment in case an attentive server swoops it up and heads for the kitchen. Ever been stranded in mid-wine tasting with no glass? You want something to remind you of the event and how much money you pledged to charity so you tuck your goblet under your arm for the entire evening. On the drive home you grit your teeth as it rattles around on the back seat. You put it in the dishwasher and finally find a place for it in the kitchen cupboard next to mementoes from past tastings.

"Coast & Country" is taking a poll on the souvenir glasses with the most longevity. For example, our everyday stemware consists of one glass remaining from a "Village Affair" matched pair, two from "The Great Taste of P.G.," an unidentified red wine glass and four "Beaujolais Nouveau" glasses. Tasters from the '91 "Masters of Food & Wine" and "Taste of Carmel" are history.

How have your souvenir goblets fared? Does anyone out there have a complete set of "Masters of Food & Wine" glasses? And who got a glass at this year's "Taste of Carmel" or "Tasty Affair?" Call or write "Coast & Country" at the Pine Cone, P.O. Box G-1, Carmel, CA 93921 and tell us about your collection. Winners for the oldest glass, most extensive and most eclectic collections will be announced in "Coast & Country." No fair if you picked them up at a garage sale.

PAUVRE NOUVEAU

Poor Beaujolais Nouveau Festival. The first year Wolfgang Puck attended. The wine arrived in a stylish carriage drawn by two prancing Percherons and was heralded by trumpets with much pomp and circumstance. There was a cooking demonstration and the crowd filled the lobby, terrace and Dunes Restaurant at The Inn at Spanish Bay. It was a great event, but reportedly not a money maker.

The second year the wine arrived by cart, pulled by two stout Pebble Beach Co. employees. The event moved from the meandering lobby and terrace to the confines of the Ballroom at Spanish Bay and several chefs, including Joyce Goldstein, presented cooking demos. The change of venue changed the atmosphere, but not for the better. Still the crowd was good. Again, the Beaujolais went in the red.

This year the featured chefs were Spanish Bay's own Pascal Riffart and Pierre Albaladejo. The thin crowd watched silently as a teal blue 300 SE Mercedes reputed to have a sticker price of $72,000 crept into the Ballroom with a small barrel of Beaujolais Nouveau in the trunk.

Pebble Beach wine expert George Edwards gamely described the vintage as having "cranberry and strawberry flavors, richer than last year." Beaujolais, known to many as a traditional light picnic wine, had suffered a spring freeze in the grape-growing regions of France this year resulting in the smallest harvest since 1957.

What is the future of the Spanish Bay Beaujolais Nouveau Festival? Will next year's vintage be delivered and a "big brother is watching" message came through loud and clear.

The public has heard the message. Everyone must be responsible for their actions when it comes to alcohol consumption and a good host must be ready to intervene when a guest has had too much to drink. Alternative beverages are more and more popular. People are eating and drinking lite.

But when RHC representative M'Liss Keesling said, "Ninety percent of the people don't have a problem with alcohol but they do get out of line now and then; so we're trying to prevent that from happening," it set off an inner alarm.

A JEWEL OF AN EVENING

In the early days of California the advance notice of a traveling show sent a ripple of excitement through pioneer towns. Curious townsfolk, especially ladies hoping to see what the outside world was up to, would turn out.

Things haven't changed much since then. Jerry Naditz, manager of Saks Fifth Avenue in Carmel, brought a stunning show to the peninsula as the highlight of the Carmel Music Society's "Nocturnal Symphony of the Senses," held at Highlands Inn.

The comfortable Fireside Room had been transformed into a high fashion salon. Stark white walls and ramp set the mood for an up tempo, electric evening. The clothes were international, the models imported from San SANDRA BAYSINGER, Carmel River School Principal Sharon Douglas, Tom Horsley and Lori Rieser were delighted with the turnout for the Auction Party, held at The Lodge at Pebble Beach.

THE THEME of the Carmel River School P.T.A. Auction Party was "We Believe in Magic." Nancy Costanza, P.T.A. President Nicole Knovich, Chair Donna Horsely and Pat Moran were pleased that their theme was so timely.

Francisco. Fashions by Thierry Mugler, Oscar de la Renta, Louis Feraud, Galanos, Eva Chun, Geoffrey Beene, Christian Lacroix, Carolina Herrera, Scassi, Bill Blass, Valentino and furs by Revillon sent ladies scurrying backstage for a closer look after the last model stepped off the ramp.

The audience had seen jewel-like colors; emerald green, canary yellow, shocking peach, hot pink, topaz and a grande finale of red. The models had looked down on a sea of local black dinner suits. The audience tittered over the 8-inch-long costume jewelry earrings worn by the leggy models. "You have to have a swan-like neck to wear those," one lady said, "you can't have any chops or jowls."

One particularly heavy ruby and emerald clip-on earring landed on the runway as the model spun at the end of the ramp. The nearest spectator picked it up for a closer look. There were several stoles, none of them fur. A gold-encrusted Galanos gown with a fish-tale hem prompted someone to observe that the gown was so heavy with jewels you could bruise yourself in it. The models were assessed as having small breasts, great legs and big feet.

Some complained about the $150 per person ticket price. "I could have had three massages," said one long-time supporter, "but this was definitely worth it." In addition to the show, guests were treated to a buffet supper prepared by Chef Brian Whitmer and his staff, and desert and dancing under the stars in the California Market.

BILL BATES RETROSPECTIVE

"In all the time he has been part and parcel of the Carmel scene Bill Bates, although known and loved in the community, has not had the public recognition his art merits." — Carmel artist and gallery owner Bill W. Dodge

Organizers of the first major exhibition for Bates sent out 5,000 invitations and nearly 500 people turned out for the Sunday afternoon post-wedding and art reception held for Bill and the former Lelie Zhao of Nanjing, China. Did they come to see the art, the new bride, or both?

The bride was beautiful in a white, off-the-shoulder suit complete with corsage. The groom was beaming with pride. The retrospective show of cartoons was delightful. Bates has consistently portrayed the citizens of Carmel since 1972. Golf, Carmel's seniors, the Hog's Breath and Christmas have been favorite subjects.

The 1972 cartoon showing the harried Golf Central telephone operator taking reservations for Pebble Beach into 1987 rings true today as does the 1988 scene of a couple in Sade's. He says to her, "In LA I was a house painter. In Carmel I'm an Environmental Enhancer." Stop by the Bill Dodge Gallery and discover Bill Bates. It's worth a chuckle.

DEMERITS

Apologies to Lillian Woodward. Lillian, who was a featured speaker at a recent Carmel Woman's Club presentation was identified by "Coast & Country" as Vivian.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS HOLD THANKSGIVING SERVICE

Thanksgiving's religious significance began with the Pilgrims holding their first formal thanksgiving Nov. 20, 1621. Carmel Christian Scientists continue this tradition of expressing gratitude to God for his loving care as the basis of their Thanksgiving Day Service.

First Church of Christ, Scientist in Carmel is located at Monte Verde and Fifth Street. The membership invites the community to attend their special service to be held Nov. 28 at 10 a.m. Children are invited to join the service. Child care will be provided for the very young.

The service will include readings from the King James version of the Bible and from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy. There will also be spontaneous sharing of spiritual healing and gratitude.

One selection to be read at the service is from the book of John, which illustrates Jesus' healing of disease: "And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years. . . . Jesus saith unto him, rise, take up thy bed, and walk. And immediately the man was whole."

The Christian Science Church continues to document healings of disease when prayer has been the chosen method of treatment. Its purpose is to practice the importance of healing in daily living as evidence of God's love for mankind. The members sincerely invite the community to join them at their Thanksgiving Day service.

SIMULTANEOUS HOSPICE TREE LIGHTINGS IN TWO CITIES

The lighting of thousands of brilliant white lights forming two 25-foot trees at simultaneous ceremonies in Monterey and Salinas, Dec. 3, will kick-off the holiday season and highlight the Tree of Life campaign by Hospice of the Central Coast.

Both Tree of Life ceremonies begin at 5:30 p.m. with holiday choral performances by I Cantori di Carmel at Portola Plaza in Monterey, and the Hartnell College Choir and Chamber Singers in the 300 Block, Oldtown Salinas.

A short program at 6 p.m. is followed by the simultaneous lighting of the trees — one atop the roof of the Monterey Marriott and the other atop the Bank of Salinas. When lit, the trees will be seen throughout the downtown areas of the two cities.

Cellular phones will be used to coordinate the simultaneous lightings, believed to be the first time such an event has occurred in Monterey County, according to Susan Freeland, vice president of development for Hospice.

"Each twinkling white light will represent a $15 donation to Hospice patient care in honor or in memory of a loved one or friend," she said.

Freeland emphasized that lights can still be dedicated after the lighting of the trees — through December 31 — by calling 372-6565 or 757-1505.

"The Tree of Life campaign each year has raised approximately $50,000 for Hospice patient care," she added. "This year, with the recent expansion of Hospice services in the Salinas Valley, the campaign is projected to raise nearly $70,000. All of the funds go directly to providing care and comfort to patients and families right here in Monterey County."

All names of donors and those honored are entered in the Tree of Life Memory Books, which will be displayed in the lobbies of the Monterey Marriott and the Bank of Salinas. A card is sent to the individual or family member to announce the remembrance gift.

THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY HOLDS TREE LIGHTING CEREMONY AT FOUR LOCATIONS

The American Cancer Society's "Love Lights a Tree" ceremony will be held at four sites throughout Monterey County.

The holiday season officially begins with a tree lighting ceremony at 4:45 to 6:30 p.m., Nov. 29, at Del Monte Shopping Center in Monterey. On Dec. 5, the ceremony will be held during a joint American Cancer Society and Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce mixer from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Highlands Inn in Carmel.

Dick Bruhns and M'Lady Bruhns stores will feature a tree lighting ceremony on Dec. 6, from 6 to 8 p.m. in Carmel, and on Dec. 10, from 6 to 8 p.m. in Salinas.

Sponsored each year by the Monterey-San Benito unit of the American Cancer Society and KMST-TV 46, the "Love Lights a Tree" fund-raiser provides individuals and businesses the opportunity to remember or honor someone special through a donation to the American Cancer Society. All gifts will be acknowledged by special cards to the honoree or family as well as the donor.

For additional information on donations or the ceremony, contact Pat Sandstrum, development director, at 372-4521.

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS CELEBRATED

A Christmas tree lighting in Cannery Row's Monterey Plaza Hotel officially kicks off the drive at 5 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 2. Refreshments will be served and guests will enjoy entertainment by local favorite Jake Stock and the Abalone Stompers.

Donated, unwrapped toys for children ages infant through age 13 years may be dropped off at any Mail Boxes Etc. in Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties or at the five Monterey and two Salinas branches of Wells Fargo Bank from Dec. 2-19.

COORDINATOR FOR EXPANDED AIDS PROGRAM NAMED

Mary Dugom, RN, has been named coordinator for Community Hospital's Outpatient Immunology Services Clinic (OPIS), an outpatient clinic for people with the HIV virus or AIDS.

Dugom's appointment to this newly-created clinical position coincides with OPIS' move to new quarters in Suite 318 of the Carmel Hill Professional Center, next to the hospital. Patient demand for OPIS has increased 50 percent since the program began in 1988. The new office is larger and has expanded its hours to 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

OPIS offers treatment, counseling, and early medical intervention for people who have AIDS, AIDS-related complex, or who test positive for the AIDS virus. It also gives physicians a place to see their HIV-positive patients.

Dugom has worked at Community Hospital since 1978 and served as manager of the hospital's Garden North unit from 1983 to 1991. From 1965 to 1978, she served as a nurse in the Jordanian Army, achieving the rank of major.

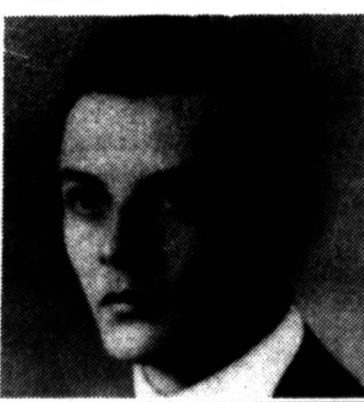

In related news, Dugom will also help coordinate the

MISSION RANCH JUNIORS FINISH TENNIS SEASON IN TRIUMPHANT FASHION

The summer-long tennis tournament season, which like baseball extends into mid-October, has finally concluded. As the long summer tournament trail wound down, several John Monnier-tutored junior netters, playing under the aegis of Mission Tennis Ranch, seemingly got stronger.

In the season's penultimate event, the Gerry Andrews Memorial Open, held at West Valley College in Saratoga, two localities garnered impressive wins in their respective divisions. Chris Chatham of Pebble Beach played to his number one seeding in the Boys 14 and under singles by handily defeating Vijay Sekham of Cupertino in straight sets 6-3 and 6-2. In the Boys 12 and under, it was Nicholas Garrone of Carmel who emerged victorious. Seeded second in the division, Garrone breezed through the field, capping it off with a finals victory over Tslani Lassiter of San Francisco by 6-4 and 6-2 scores.

Then finally it was time for the Northern California Tennis Association/K-Swiss Summer Grand Prix championships, which pitted the top eight point-getters in each division with points accumulated over a series of summer tournaments.

The aforementioned Nicholas Garrone and Kelley Sweeney of Carmel Valley made the trek up to the Santa Clara Tennis Center to do battle with the best of the best among racquet-wielding members of their peer groups. They also made the best of their 78-mile trek north.

Once again Garrone was an impressive victor in the Boys 12 and under division. This time the winner's trophy was earned through a straight set triumph over John Hsu of Santa Clara, 6-2 and 6-0.

For Sweeney the division was the Girls 16 and under. The results were practically a mirror image of those posted by Garrone. Kelley Sweeney defeated Vedica Jain of Los Altos by a tally of 6-2 and 6-1. For Sweeney, who started off slowly in her initial year in this bracket, it was a double victory. She also was the top point earner in her division.

The tournament travels are over until next spring, but the junior tennis program at Mission Ranch goes on through the winter. Judging by the 1991 results posted by the dozen or so tournament tested youths who call Mission Ranch their tennis home, the 1992 season is already anticipated with great optimism. For more information please contact Jeff Doyle at 624-4335.

COMMUNITY FOUNDATION ANNOUNCES MIDDLE SCHOOL AWARDS PROGRAM

The Lori and Lou Flagg Memorial Youth Fund of the Community Foundation for Monterey County announced

Nov. 12 that it will give over $18,000 to recognize and encourage positive achievement among middle school students in Monterey County.

"It's time to reward the kinds of good things many young people are doing," said Morgan Flagg, president of the fund. "It's important to say that the community respects young people who might not have started out at the top of the class, but who have made the effort to study and participate and found out that they could make real improvements."

The Lori and Lou Flagg Advancement Awards will honor one boy and one girl from the eight grade at public schools in Monterey County. Students will be selected on the basis of improvement in academic performance, citizenship, concern for others, and positive participation in school and community life.

"It's also important to continue to reward students who have longstanding accomplishments," said Flagg. "The county was going to have to discontinue its Student of the Year Awards because of budget cuts this year, and it seemed a shame to let that happen. The Flagg Fund will offer a one-year bridge grant for 1992 so that the program can continue." The Lori and Lou Flagg Student of the Year Awards for 1992 will also recognize one boy and one girl at each public middle school. These awards recognize consistent, outstanding achievement in academic fields, citizenship, and extracurricular activities.

The Lori and Lou Flagg Advancement Awards of $200 each, and the Lori and Lou Flagg Student of the Year Awards of $300 each will be placed in interest-earning savings accounts administered by the Monterey County Scholarship and Awards Program at the Monterey County Office of Education, and will be awarded to students upon completion of high school and enrollment in an accredited college or vocational training program.

The Lori and Lou Flagg Memorial Youth Fund, a supporting organization of the Community Foundation for Monterey County, was established in memory of Lori and Lou Flagg, daughters of Morgan and Claire Flagg, formerly of Monterey. It makes grants to benefit youth in Monterey County, with a special focus on providing encouragement and recognition to youth in middle school and high school age groups. The Community Foundation makes grants in all fields to benefit nonprofit organizations in Monterey County, and has assets of over $11 million.

For further information about the awards selection process, contact Ms. Cynthia Sanchez, Monterey County Scholarship and Awards Program, Monterey County Office of Education, at 373-2955 or 755-0300.

FORMER RESIDENT EXCELS IN FOOTBALL

Wide receiver and defensive back Ike Stewart of Newburgh, N.Y., has been selected as Bates College football co-player of the week by head coach Web Harrison.

He was honored for his excellent play on both offense and defense in the Bobcats' 41-7 loss to Colby on Saturday. The loss left Bates' record at 0-5-1.

Stewart, who had been sidelined by an injury, saw his first action in five games and responded with three catches for 56 yards. He also saw his first action at safety since his return from the knee injury. He garnered four solo tackles and two assists, as well as two spectacular pass deflections.

Stewart is a graduate of Robert Louis Stevenson School in Pebble Beach and is a former resident of Carmel.

Salvation Army needs bell-ringers

The annual Salvation Army Red Kettle collection will begin Nov. 29 and volunteers are needed to ring bells by the kettles in area shopping centers.

By working two-hour shifts, couples, or pairs from the game work place can make a real difference in our community. Collections made during one shift will provide Holiday dinners for the needy, or help for the homeless.

This is the 100th anniversary of the Red Kettle operation, which began in San Francisco in 1891 and has become a world-wide annual holiday event. The ringing of bells in our shopping centers has become a real part of the Holiday spirit, symbolizing the feeling of charity in everyone this time of year.

Ringin' a hell for a two hour shift is one way to make a change in our community - to make a difference. A call to the Salvation Army, asking about bell-ringing is the first step in making that difference. The number is 899-4911.

Father Farrell's Wisdom

A Thanksgiving poem

Each year when it come Thanksgiving
I try to think of another way to give a worthy "Thank You"
On this, America's special day.
But what is an adequate thank you
For a blossom, a moon beam, the dew
A thought, a feeling
That becomes a part of you?
And what about our hopes and dreams
A longed for wish come true?
And those ever-precious intangibles
Like love and caring too?
Lord, I've found a way to say "Thank You"
For things so diverse and apart
I'll gather them all together
As I offer up my heart."

The Golden Years

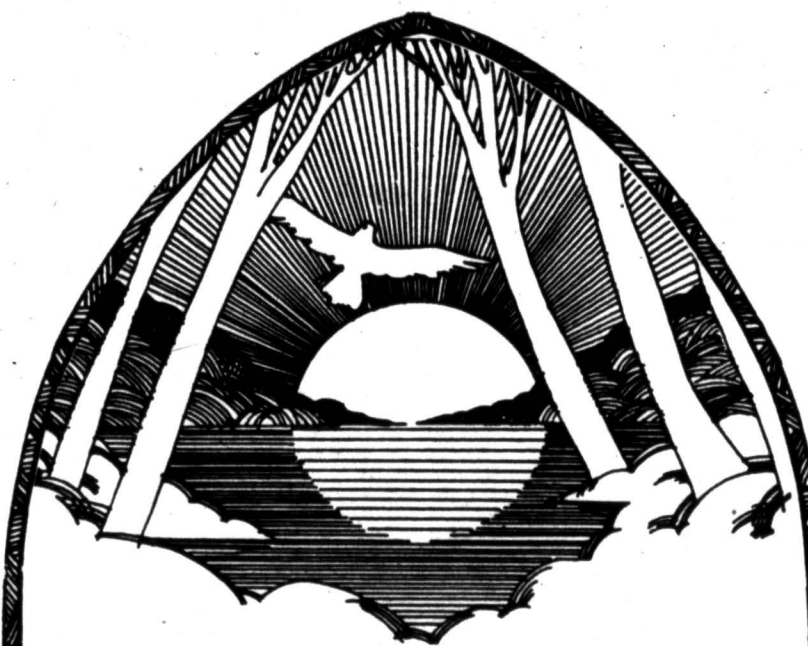

By Myles Williams

Once they numbered 4,750,000 young men in uniform. That was the peak of U.S. mobilization in World War I. Less than half finished training in time to go overseas, most of them to France, before the war ended on November 11, 1918, but 117,000 lost their lives, and more than 200,000 were wounded. Now, 71 years later, there are fewer than 90,000 surviving veterans of World War I and their average age is 95. One of them is Fred T. Wilson, a decorated infantry officer, retired banker and lifelong resident of Mamareneck, New York. A widower, he still drives his car, goes shopping, and cooks his own meals. He so regularly attends the local Rotary Club meetings he was cited for perfect attendance for two consecutive years.

Now that he has celebrated his 95th birthday with a 45-minute show of jokes, songs and some soft-shoe dancing at a Las Vegas casino, George Burns is looking ahead to his 100th birthday show at London's Palladium. Singer Phyllis McGuire says Burns invited the McGuire sisters to appear with him at the Palladium, "if we're still around." "You can't help getting older, but you don't have to get old," Burns told the Las Vegas audience. "I'm going to stay in show business until I'm the only one left."

Zantman Art Galleries' arts festival features 60 artists from around world

CELEBRATE ONE of the great success stories of the West Coast art scene when the Zantman Art Galleries present their second annual Collector's Fine Arts Festival. In celebration of the 1991 holiday season, the festival opens Friday, Nov. 29 and continues through Dec. 28.

Works by more than 60 artists from America, Europe and Asia will be represented at this gallery, which maintains two locations in downtown Carmel.

The Zantman Art Galleries were launched 32 years ago by a Dutch couple, Johan and Geertruida Zantman. They first operated their gallery out of the Hidden Village Coffee House in Monterey, and by 1962 the business had grown so much that they moved the gallery to Carmel.

This pioneer gallery was purchased in 1986 by the present owner, Steven Huish. The Zantman Art Galleries continue to represent top artists from here and abroad.

According to Huish, "We have continued the Zantman tradition of bringing in exhibitions of notable artists already at the forefront of the contemporary art scene."

Among those featured will be Phyllis Londraville, whose work has been represented exclusively by the Zantman Art Galleries since 1967. She works in her own, highly individual painting technique, and says "My chosen technique requires so very much time on each painting that the gallery has only a small number at any one time."

Her paintings initiate their viewers into a realm of enchantment, governed by the unexpected, inhabited by a myriad of diverse beings, some more familiar than others.

Londraville will sign a limited edition lithograph during the Collector's Fine Arts Festival, which is entitled "Enchanted Circus."

'Belonging to the Universe' topic of Thunderbird lecture

FRTJOF CAPRA and David Steindl-Rast will discuss their new book, Belonging To The Universe, Monday, Dec. 2, 7 to 9 p.m. in The Whole Life Center at the Thunderbird Bookshop in The Barnyard, Carmel.

Capra, author of the bestselling The Tao of Physics, sought out Brother David, a Benedictine monk, because of his renown for making fresh sense of Christian faith in the context of modern psychology, science and religious pluralism.

Together they investigate the parallels between new paradigm thinking in science and religion, offering a remarkably compatible view of the universe. They share insights into how science and religion seek to make us at home in the universe by illuminating the mystery in which we're immersed and giving a sense of ultimate belonging.

Fritjof Capra, Ph.D., physicist and systems theorist, is the founder and president of the Elmwood Institute in Berkeley, an ecological think tank dedicated to fostering new concepts and values for a sustainable future.

David Steindl-Rast, Ph.D., psychologist, is a member of the Camaldolese Benedictine community in Big Sur. Other books by Steindl-Rast are Gratefulness and A Listening Heart.

Music Corner

By Nathalie Plotkin

A rising star

BARTONE EARLE Patriarco, at the age of 25, is in the beginning stages of potentially distinguished career. He is assuredly a rising star in the musical firmament and we are lucky to have heard him on his way up. He returned to Carmel's Sunset Center Theater last week to sing the recital he was awarded as part of the Grand Prize of the Carmel Music Society Vocal Competition.

This concert was the young artist's first professional appearance as a lieder recitalist and it was a notable debut; one to be proud of. The voice has an impressively wide range, and the diction displayed in four languages was a model of clarity and lucidity.

To open a program of great diversity and maturity, two rarely performed arias by Mozart were heard. The first was a delightful, tongue-in-cheek love song written for "Cosi Fan Tutti," but never used. Patriarco sang with vitality and an easily produced vibrant tone. He brought out its humor very neatly. The second one was from "La Finta Gardineria" and permitted him to sing in three languages while acting out the mannerisms of a Frenchman, an Englishman and an Italian. The voice was rich and the music was charmingly expressed, but with almost too much exuberance.

Making a very strong musical and stylistic change of pace by turning to four of the Morike songs by Hugo Wolf, Patriarco became a most persuasive and refined performer of German lieder. "Auf einer Wanderung" was full of vocal color and flexible direction changes that were very well conveyed. "Nimmersatte Liebe" had many dramatic moments. "Begegnung" was a delightful vignette and "Abschied" was a satirical gem, sung in a warm and generous voice. These songs demand great tonal flexibility and high musical intelligence, and both were amply supplied.

Five songs by Richard Strauss were also expertly expounded. They were love songs which covered a broad spectrum of expression. "Ruhe Meine Seele" was dramatic at times, but also reserved and quiet. "Ich Trage Meine Minne" was graceful and tasteful with a lovely refrain. "Alle Mein Gedanken" had charm and "Traum Durch die Dämmerung" was a barcarolle sung tenderly and lightly. "Cacilie" was another finely shaped love lyric which was allowed to open up vocally for a fine resolution.

For me, once again as in the competition, the highpoint of the concert was Poulenc's "Chansons Villageoises." This is very difficult music, challenging the musicianship, awareness and sophistication of the singer, even as it explored the outer and inner limits of the vocal range. Some of the songs are "patter" songs demanding the greatest agility, flexibility and technical competence imaginable. Others are strongly dramatic and/or chillingly ironic. Patriarco's traversal was an interpretive tour de force done with vocally resplendent stature.

Paul Bowles' "Black Mountain Ballads" suffered by being programmed after the Poulenc, but were sympathetically sung. Aaron Copland's settings of Old American songs fared somewhat better. "Zion's Walls" was a spiritual, sung with good proportion and a smooth, full tone production. "Little Horses" was a delightful lullaby and "Ching a Ring-Chaw" rang and resonated, but with all that, the Poulenc work should have been programmed last. The brilliance of its performance made it too hard an act to follow with some rather inconsequential folk songs.

In response to the enthusiastic applause, Patriarco's encore was his signature song, "Largo al Factotum" from "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini. It was delivered with the same impeccable diction and fine performance values that prevailed throughout the concert. This was followed by the spiritual "Give me Jesus."

Pianist David Clemensen was a skilled collaborator. He played supportively and sensitively during a demanding program. His work, particularly in Wolf, Strauss and Poulenc, was polished, aware and flexible.

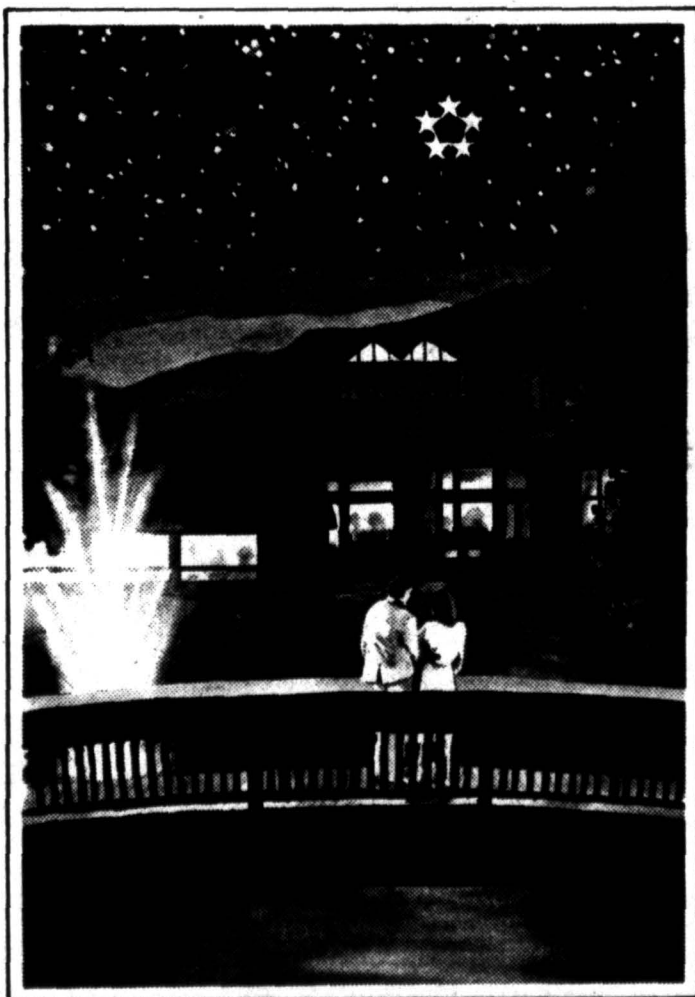

One would hope that this more than promising young artist will continue to pursue his obvious talent for lieder singing and not neglect this field while continuing to advance his operatic career.

Jazz Tides

By John Detro

Saying farewell

EVER SINCE Monterey Jazz Festival began in 1958, lovers of the art form have verbalized ideas about a few hundred thousand different courses the annual bash should steer. Now's the time when notions from MJF followers will be given extra-close (and, yes, official), attention.

Even hermits and space cowboys know so: 34-year MJF General Manager Jimmy Lyons will retire after the 1992 edition. The fest board created a special committee that's charged with making Jimmy's 35th jazz blast one that he'll never forget. It's chaired by San Francisco PR man Ernie Beyl and includes pros who know Jimmy well and love him a lot. Certain special events already decorate the drawing board.

Doc Etienne, attorney and MJF board president, announced Ernie's unit with the comment that the general public should feel free to offer suggestions. Now that thought has been given form by Doc, Beyl and fest spokesman Paul Fingerote.

All three backed a unique plan. Anyone having thoughts on MJF 1992 or greetings for Jimmy — a giant farewell card may be assembled — should drop a note to your present correspondent in care of this newspaper. The good words and concepts will be passed along for incorporation.

So pull out the pen, paper, typewriter, PC. Express yourself. Today. "Whatever creative in-put people have," Doc said, "will get real consideration. Monterey Jazz Festival belongs to all of us."

DON'T CONFUSE the new Monterey Jazz Orchestra (MJO) with the familiar Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra (MPJO). The latter continues on Monday nights at Carmel Mission Inn. And MJO has kicked off "an open-ended run" on Monday nights at Monterey Bay Club of the downtown Marriott Hotel.

MJO's the creation of reedman Roger Eddy, Bow Williams (conductor) and trumpeter Mike Gurcillo — all formerly with MPJO. Many months ago, there was a bitter break between ex-music director Mike and the MPJO leadership. Gurcillo made some moves toward fashioning another big band, but ended up returning to Omaha. Now he's back here, works in a San Jose musical show, helps shape the MJO band book and sound.

Roger described MJO as a 17-member aggregation made up of locals plus "quite a few players from Santa Cruz and San Jose." He wisely sidestepped the old animosity — exhausting for all concerned — and concentrated on the present. The weekly door charge: $5 per person "with proceeds divided among musicians for gas money."

Eddy said during an interview: "We picked up a couple of musicians from MPJO. I don't dislike (MPJO honcho) Eric (Tonn). What he's trying to do is great. But it seemed to me that the quality was going down. They have those (tax) bills and can't pay anybody anything. So a lot of the younger guys were quitting. We're just Roger and Bow and Mike. No big titles. We're a rehearsal band and we're trying to avoid the bureaucratic approach."

And: "Actually, we were going to work on Sunday nights so that some players could be with both big bands if they wished. But, because of his show, Mike was available Mondays only. We're not trying to put Eric or anyone else out of business."

MJO boasts strong instrumentalists. Roger smiled when he mentioned lead alto player Tom Politzer (of the group Spang-a-lang), and superb trombonist Dave Gregoric. "We just love to perform the music," he added. "To me, the other situation wasn't fulfilling any more. Our book's an amalgamation that's being assembled from various sources."

KNOCKOUT VOCALIST Kitty Margolis will be the guest artist Sunday afternoon (12/1) in the Doc Ricketts' Lab Jazz Series. She'll be backed, of course, by the excellent quartet of series booker John Cortes. Each session runs from two till six o'clock. No cover charge.

Jazz Times magazine called San Franciscan Kitty the big discovery at 1989's Monterey Jazz Festival. She blew away MJF crowds again in 1990. She has just returned from a jazz cruise which put her up on the bandstand beside Dizzy Gillespie, Clark Terry, other giants. Her basic sound (early Anita O'Day), adds Betty Carter's chance-taking and rich humor that's hers alone. The great vocalist Sheila Jordan said: "After hearing Kitty's wonderful work, I'm sure that the future of jazz singing is safe and sound."

Jazz ensembles from Monterey Peninsula College and North Monterey County High School will present a free public jazz concert early next month (Sunday 12/8) in MPC Music Hall. Starts at 4 p.m.

Don Schamber directs the MPC Jazz Ensemble. "Contemporary works as well as old standards will be offered by the two award-winning bands," he says. "D.L. Johnson heads up the North Monterey Jazz Ensemble."

The Great Big Band (fine players from throughout Northern California) will be spotlighted Monday night (11/2) at Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz. The leader — trumpeter, arranger, composer, jazz educator Ray Brown. Eight o'clock kick; $12 per.

"For years," says Kuumbwa overseer Tim Jackson, "Ray has used his talents teaching young players. Now's the chance to hear his work played by seasoned

TRULY TALENTED—San Francisco vocalist Kitty Margolis will be the guest artist Sunday afternoon (12/1) in the jazz series of Doc Ricketts' Lab near Cannery Row. She'll work with the John Cortes Quartet. First set starts at two o'clock. Parking's plentiful now.

Art Notes

By Sam Colburn

A matter of perspective

WHO CAN render, on a flat surface, the way things look? There are many artists who are and have been very skilled in representing physical reality. The only way this can be done is through the magic of a hologram. I have seen a still life of fruit presented this way, and, indeed, you could see the sides of the oranges, lemons, etc. What is important is imagery, not the rendering.

One can better understand this thought by reading Robert Henrie's "Spirit of the Art Form," or Ben Shahn's "The Shape of Content." In ancient times before perspective was discovered, aerial perspective was used to simulate distance or subject matter of the same relative size.

In much contemporary work, some forms come forward and some go back, but this is achieved through color and mass. There are also compositions where everything is on the same plane, typical of this approach being the paintings of children. These are, happily enough, completely innocent of a horizon line, much less the laws of perspective. For these, the simple joy of putting on color and lines with circular shapes for people is enough.

The Pacific Grove Art Center, through a very active staff and lots of wall space, is able to hang a wide range of shows without any particular trend being evident.

Currently showing in the main gallery is Winfred Veit. He is truly European in his background and education. Born in West Germany, he now lives in the south of France. It is very rare for an artist to be both painter and sculptor, but Veit accomplishes both. The paintings are in oil pastel and acrylic, the sculptures nearly all bronze. The subject matter is all vertically aligned. His color is never strong. There are people shapes, either singly or in mass. Number 1 is very light in tone with centering darks, while in number 6 the long figures go from light to dark. Number 8 presents a single dark figure against which are remnants of some ancient past. In numbers 23 and 27 the figures appear to be Oriental. In numbers 20 through 22 the figures show some relation to Icarus. Number 16 has a mysterious figure against an eerie blue light. In general I think this work is metaphysical in content, hence the title, "Where the Soul is Standing, Stands the Man."

Over in the Elmarie Dyke Gallery are the watercolors and oils of Andres Morilla. He handles watercolor especially well, as in painting number 19 in which the red works splendidly. Numbers 29 and 30 have strong lights and darks. Number 40 is a piece with boats tied up in which Andres has achieved a radiance. In number 42 he uses a brilliant blue, and number 34 is a successful still life. I do not think that his imagery is special.

Undercover maneuvering

By JIM KINNEY

OCTOBER SURPRISE by Barbara Honneger. Tudor Publishing: New York and Los Angeles. 292 pages. $19.95.

With new allegations by Gary Sick and other informed sources that the Reagan/Bush election team in October, 1980, conspired to delay the release of 52 American hostages held in Iran, this book by local writer Barbara Honneger deserves renewed attention and discussion.

Honneger, now a private research analyst, herself was a member of the Reagan/Bush election transition team. Her proximity to the events and her day-to-day familiarity with major and minor political players during that period lend an air of authenticity to her story. This would be hard to match by outsiders.

"October Surprise" was the term originally applied by the Reagan/Bush campaign to the one event they felt stood between them and victory in the 1980 November elections—namely, that the Carter White House might effect an 11th hour release of the hostages in Iran and thus sweep Carter in for a second four-year term. National polls from that period predicted a 10 percent voter switch towards Carter had such a release occurred.

That did not happen, of course, and the central contention of Honneger's book is it didn't happen because of complex covert maneuvering by high-level Reaganites such as William Casey, Robert MacFarland, Richard Allen and George Bush himself.

Acknowledging early on that absolutely conclusive proof for such a dramatic and damaging accusation would be almost impossible, the author defends her decision to write the book anyway, saying, "Perfect proof may happen in Ronald Reagan's Hollywood, but it is rare in real life."

A book like this can quickly overwhelm a reader with massive numbers of names, dates, conversations and allegations piling up so quickly that it is impossible to keep a clear idea of what was happening. But for all the difficult and fascinating data crowded into these pages, it is still a valuable book to read.

Personal insights and anecdotes abound:

Of Reagan: "During my nearly four years as a political appointee in the Reagan/Bush national campaign...I grew not only to like but to love Ronald Reagan as an individual."

Of Casey: "If there ever was a real-life Wizard of OSS, it was Casey. He was the perfect spy."

Of Bush: "Mr. Bush...had a record of being unaccounted for for periods of up to 24 hours at a time during his previous presidential campaign."

For those Americans who have a deep, nagging suspicion that this nation's foreign policies are being handled in a less than honest way and that our very election process is being prostituted at the highest levels, I recommend this interesting, often mesmerizing book.

world is the art of classical Islamic painting. The work of Ustad Homayon Etemadi is not representational, but gives a very detailed graphic depiction of life in Afghanistan in ancient times. This is a whole world which is strange to us, but rich and fascinating. The artist is not concerned with perspective, but is concerned with narratives of the life of the times.

These exhibits will be at the Pacific Grove Art Center through Dec. 6.

Each year the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History has an exhibit of works in aqueous media. Many prizes are awarded and watercolor painters strive to be hung in this exhibit. There is a small piece on the left as you enter the gallery called

"Many Moons Ago" by artist Rosemarie Manke. The shapes are unusual and suggest an earth in formation. Y.S. Lim contributes a giant goldfish, "Mosaic of Koi" in which he has used many subtle washes to establish the form. In a different style, "Monday Wash" by William Stone, Jr., presents wash on a line. "White Umbrellas" by Kathleen Stoker is a solid painting. She has used an opaque white for the umbrellas that works very well. Wilda Northrop shows a masterful aquarelle of goldfish. Some forms go back and some come forward, and there is a feeling of the wetness of water. I believe Wilda Northrop's Best of Show to be a complex work, very well handled. Keeping the value relationships in balance is difficult. The painting has the depth of several planes, and is more complicated than a Dong Kingman. "Daybreak" by Jeanne Bellmer has the poetry of movement. This show, as a whole, is rather bland.

Both Helene Goldstein and Helen Barker have solo exhibits at the Carmel Art Association. Helene shows paintings in pastel of very large flower forms and abstractions based on the forms of buildings. I like the flower shapes, but feel that the matting obtrudes on them. Her color on the works involving buildings is intense. I liked "Sailboats in the Wind." She uses flower shapes very well in this one. I would say that she has two kinds of imagery—one organic and the other geometric.

In the middle gallery are the oils and watercolors of Helen Barker. The use of the white in "Matilija Poppies" is very effective in the later medium. "Dunes and Sea" is mood catching. Among the oils I liked the use of orange and green in "Inviting Path," and "Meadow by the Sea."

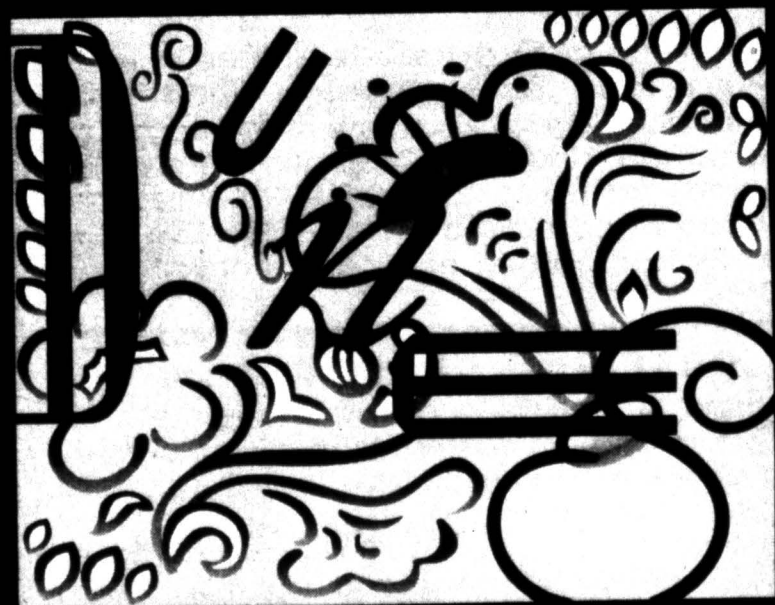

Howard Bradford's three oils in the entrance lobby are fine works in muted color. Also in that area is "Flower Street Explosion," a watercolor by Wilda Northrop with a complicated patterning of lights to darks.

This exhibit will continue through Dec. 4.

Critic at Large

By Mac McDonald

Too much of a good thing?

THE AREA will abound in great music in the next week, it may even be a case of too much of a good thing because music fans are going to have to choose their poison carefully.

For starters there's Dec. 2. On that Monday evening hot up-and-coming blues guitarist Debbie Davies will hold court at Doc Ricketts' Lab, while just a half a block away on Cannery Row, fusion jazz piano great Chick Corea will lead his Elektric Band in two shows (7 and 9), at the New Boiler Room.

The following night LA-based power pop trio The Buzzwords, featuring Parthenon Huxley, will perform at the New Boiler Room, with local rockers Van Gogh's Ear (with new member, former Bombay guitarist Michael Brooks now on board), opening.

Then, two nights later, on Dec. 5 great blues fusion guitarist Robben Ford returns to town, this time over at Doc Ricketts' Lab.

All this doesn't even take into account the excellent local acts performing around the peninsula, such as, to name just one, Jeanne Wooster Friday, Nov. 29 at Portofino Cafe in PG (8 p.m., $5 per), a show dubbed in her filer: "Jeanne Wooster is Over the Edge... One Stop Only Tour." She calls her music "mondo acoustica," a folk-New Age combination on the order of Michael Hedges. She plays guitar and sings on her originals and a few covers (Note: Tocara was to have played that night; they cancelled.) Info on Portofino shows is at 373-7379.

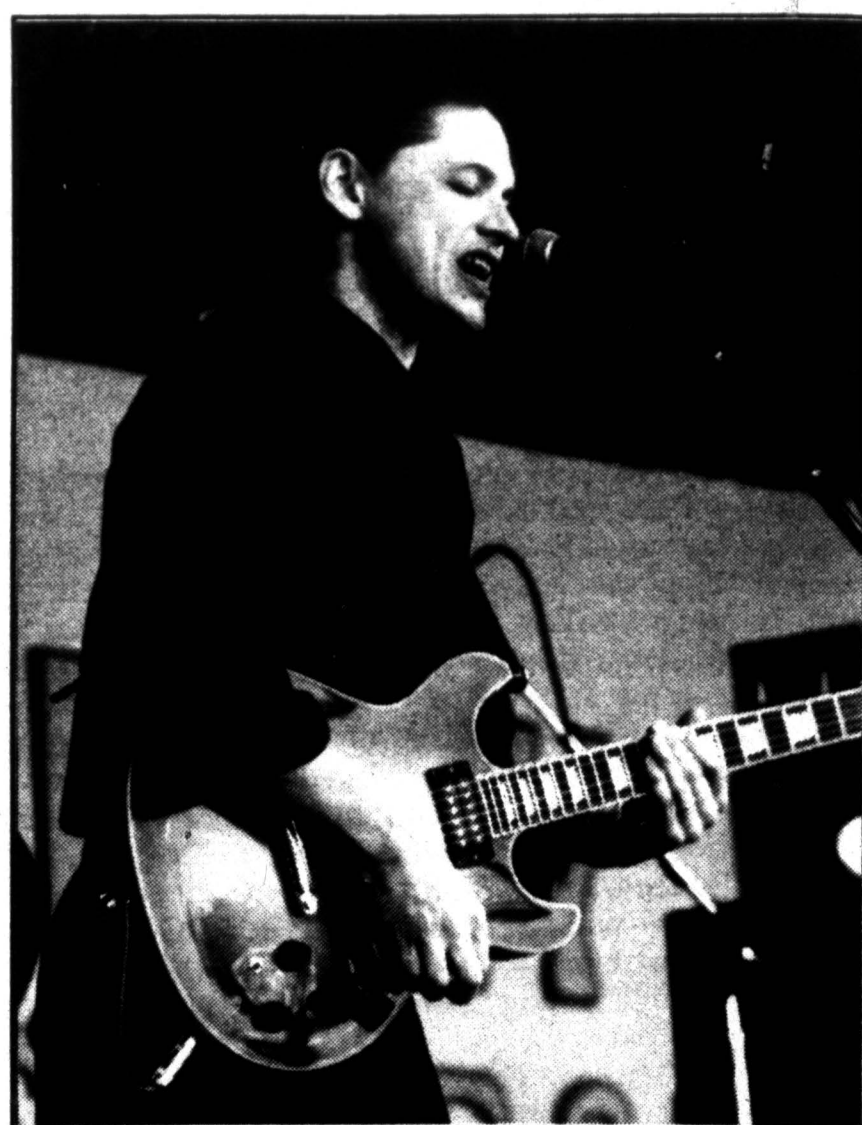

Of the above acts, Chick Corea is a must-see, he's a seminal figure in jazz fusion and continues to craft fine recordings of both trad jazz and more electric fusion (with both the Akoustic Band and Elektric Band). As usual he's surrounded himself with the best musicians (Al Dimeola and Stanley Clarke are alumni of his bands), so this should be quite a show.

On the other hand Parthenon Huxley may be the best bargain at $5. Huxley's debut Sunny Nights got strong reviews, especially one from Rolling Stone magazine that called him a major talent. Huxley writes finely crafted songs, ones that are filled with irony, humor and wry and perceptive observations of the world. He hasn't appeared on the peninsula for at least two years so his return is a welcome one. This time he'll be leading a band consisting of drummer Winston Watson from Was Not Was and bassist Paul Martinez. His former bandmates are out touring with the likes of Don Henley and Warren Zevon.

But you also don't want to miss Debbie Davies. She's toured with Albert Collins' Icebreakers for the past three years and has distinguished herself with the Master of the Telecaster. Anyone who can hold their own with Collins is a blues guitarist to be reckoned with. She's struck out on her own now, breaking in her first tour by opening for the Fabulous Thunderbirds at Slim's in San Francisco. She's not only one of the best female blues guitarists we have, she may be one of the best blues guitarist around period.

And then there's Robben Ford. What can I say about the man, he's a monster on guitar. He's in great demand as a session player and once toured with The Yellowjackets. When he plays, half the audience is usually other musicians, watching intently, perhaps trying to steal a lick or two? He's fashioned himself his own niche in music, performing a sort of blues fusion, classic blues melded with smooth jazzy overtones. He performed here last at the Monterey Bay Blues Festival and has been to Doc's twice.

See what I mean about too much of a good thing? This is like a musical Thanksgiving dinner; just step up to the table and fill up your plate. And don't forget to leave some room for dessert.

MORE UPCOMING events with a musical bent on the Monterey Peninsula and outlying areas:

• Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row has, for its Blue Monday weekly blues series, the aforementioned Debbie Davies, Dec. 2; Charlie Musselwhite on Dec. 9; Roy Rogers & the Delta Rhythm Kings Dec. 12; Lonnie Brooks Dec. 16 and Jimmy Wood & the Immortals on Dec. 17. Info on all shows can be had by calling 649-4241.

The Enchanted

The Staff Players Repertory Company will honor the holidays with Jean Giraudoux' wonderful fantasy The Enchanted, directed by Marcia Gambrell Hovick.

Set in a small French town near a lake, The Enchanted tells the tale of a ghost, a spirited young teacher, her precocious pupils and an assortment of very French bureaucrats.

The Enchanted will open Friday, Nov. 29, at 8 p.m., and play Thursday, Friday, Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. through Dec. 21.

Members of Staff Players welcome seven girls from C.E.T. into the holiday production.

Jean Giraudoux, best known as the author of The Madwoman of Chailott, is wry, wise, and witty in his tale of a town jerked backward and forward between this world and the next. The Enchanted is a warm and joyful entertainment for the season.

The cast includes Ellis Allbee as the mayor, Thomas R. Sanchez as the doctor, Jim Alter as the mild supervisor of weights and measures, Larry Earlix as the martinet of an inspector, Pamela Murphy and Nancy Lee Methenitis as the inquisitive Mangebois Sisters, Ivan Flansberg as an executioner, Maria Lojkovic as Isabel, and Donavan Dolan as the ghost.

For reservations call Staff Players Repertory Company at 624-1531.

The Caretaker

The Caretaker, Harold Pinter's strikingly original comedy-drama, continues in the SRO Theatre at Monterey Peninsula College. The production will be staged at 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays through Nov. 30, with 7 p.m. performances on Sundays, Nov. 24 and Dec. 1.

Betty Dayton directs the cast comprised of Kevin Caston, Jose Lambert and Seth Ulman.

The Caretaker is the story of an old bum who is provided with shelter in a cluttered room of an abandoned house. By turn, he is wheedling, truculent and full of bravado. Eventually he alienates his benefactor and the good Samaritan's brother.

Tickets are $5 for general admission, $3 for MPC Theatre season ticket holders. Tickets and information is at 655-3200.

Dial 'M' for Murder

Frederick Knott's classic mystery-thriller, Dial 'M' for Murder continues at the original GroveMont Theater Arts Center, located at 320 Hoffman (between Lighthouse and Hawthorne) in New Monterey.

Directed by Sandy Williams, the play will run Thursdays (at 8 p.m.) through Sundays (at 7 p.m.) with a 2 p.m. Sunday matinee Dec. 8 (there will be no evening performance on that day).

The production features Marlie Avant, Alan Smith, Michael Kelly, John D'Auria and Jim Walters, Jr. The production closes Sunday, Dec. 22.

For further information, call 649-6852 or 649-0340.

Once in a Lifetime

The Western Stage concludes its 1991 season with Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman's comedy of early Hollywood, Once in a Lifetime, now through Dec. 15 in the Studio Theater of the Hartnell College Performing Arts Center in Salinas.

Once in a Lifetime is a roaring satire of the days of the talkies in old Hollywood and was the first collaboration of Hart and Kaufman, who were also responsible for The Man Who Came to Dinner and Merrily We Roll Along.

Showtimes are at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 2 and 7 p.m. Sundays, with a special performance to benefit The Disabled Actor's and Patron's Equipment Fund on Dec. 12.

For ticket information, please call 755-6816 or 375-2111.

My Lady Darrell

The Troupers of the Gold Coast stage this classic English melodrama. My Lady Darrell focuses on a young girl who marries into a good family under strange circumstances. She then becomes the object of evil desire of the villain.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays at California's First Theatre.

The box office is open 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, and until curtain on Friday and Saturday. The theater is at Scott and Pacific in downtown Monterey.

Tickets are $7 for adults, $5.50 for seniors and teens, and $4.50 for sub-teens. For reservations, call 375-4916.

Prospect

Written by Octavio Solis and directed by Tony Curiel, San Juan Bautista's El Teatro Campesino's production of Prospect continues through Dec. 8 at the El Teatro Campesino Playhouse, 705 Fourth St. in the Old Mission Pueblo of San Juan Bautista.

Prospect is a highly charged play centering on the intertwining and complex lives of characters in a house on Prospect Street. Although often humorous, Curiel describes their reality as gritty and not necessarily a pretty picture of their everyday life.

The multi-cultural casting includes Bruno Cisneros, Vetz Trussell, Dennis Matthews, Madeleine Gavin, Hansford Prince and Christianne Hauber.

Performances are on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 and Saturday matinees at 2.

Advance ticket reservations are available by calling 623-2444 (Visa and MasterCard accepted). Prospect is a professional Actors Equity presentation.
